Consultant Editor Rodney Percy

The definitive text on the law of negligence

- Essential reference for every negligence case whether it is to do with personal injury, property or product liability
- Covers both common law and statutory duty
- Sets out the general principles, covering duty of care, liability and causation
- Deals with both the standard of care in different situations and areas where strict liability applies
- Explains what remedies may be available, including damages
- Focuses on both established areas and developing areas such as psychiatric injuries
- Helps you to establish whether a duty of care exists and if it has been breached, so you can determine quickly and with confidence whether a cause for action exists
- Updates you with new statutory duties so you'll know exactly how recent changes apply
- Shows how the principles work in specific situations via detailed analysis of case law and sets out the implications of new developments
- Covers UK and Commonwealth law

The 1st supplement brings the mainwork fully up to date with the latest developments, including:

- Further examples of claims against local authorities in respect of the discharge of their statutory function for the care of children
- Fresh examples under the Limitation Act including Norton v. Corus UK Ltd
- Cases which have addressed particular means of defending a negligence claim: Secretary of State for Trade and Industry v. Bairstow (No.1) (what amounts to a collateral attack on an earlier decision); Miller v. Garton Shires and Skipper v. Calderdale M.B.C. (the remedy of striking out)
- The liability of employers' for bullying at work was considered in Green v. DB Group Services (UK) Ltd. and in Daw v. Intel Corporation (UK) Ltd
- Cases under the Consumer Protection Act 1987 including Pollard v. Tesco Stores Ltd. (expectation of consumers in relation to child proof bottle tops)
