Feedback:

"Jake achieved a brilliant result for our client in a long-running and very acrimonious dispute that involved allegations of defamation and harassment spanning many years. Jake not only succeeded in getting the claim struck out but also obtained a large indemnity costs order against the opponent. His tenacious attitude, commercial acumen, sound strategic advice and client-friendly approach were all unwavering throughout and exactly what the client needed to get the matter resolved to her satisfaction"

Jake Rudman (2012)

Barrister

Introduction:

Jake is passionate about resolving disputes. He understands what it takes to reach an agreement in difficult litigation, having successfully negotiated settlements throughout his practice as a specialist barrister.

Jake is willing to mediate a variety of matters including:

- Contract
- Employment
- Property
- Media Law
- Defamation
- Privacy
- Harassment
- Data Protection
- Probate

In his barrister practice, Jake is the head of Clerksroom's Media and Information Law team. He advises both claimants and defendants on defamation, misuse of private information, breach of confidence, data protection and harassment.

Jake has acted for household names, high-net-worth individuals and companies and been involved in some of the most prominent media law cases in recent years, and has handled a number of reported cases. He regularly uses his experience in solicitors' firms to take cases from inception through to resolution.

Background

Jake's experience for both claimants and defendants allows him to understand positions on both sides of a dispute.

Acquiring a wealth of industry knowledge, Jake completed pupillage with top media law Chambers 5RB. He worked in three of the most pre-eminent media law firms (Harbottle & Lewis, Carter-Ruck and Simons Muirhead and Burton), and has advised most major British media outlets, including The BBC, The Times, The Sun and The Mirror. Jake is also an NCTJ-accredited journalist. He is direct access qualified and certified to conduct litigation.

Prior to specialising in media law, Jake took on a wide range of criminal and common law civil work whilst at Pump Court Chambers.
