Anna Loutfi (2019)

Barrister

Introduction:

---

Dr Anna Loutfi is a barrister at Clerksroom (called in 2019). She has a practice in employment, equalities and human rights law and specialises in freedom of expression cases, particularly in the higher education sector.

Anna has a research affiliation with the Dickson Poon School of Law (King's College London), where she also hosts and produces the legal podcast series, The Verdict, interviewing some of the most important legal practitioners and researchers in the human rights field.

Anna is a keen advocate of diversity at the Bar and believes reforms in legal education are key to building a profession that is more representative of society. She is a champion of mature law students, who have embraced risk and costs to retrain for the Bar, bringing unique early career skills to the profession, as well as life experience.

All enquiries to the clerks on 01823 247 247.
