

Marc Brittain

General Information

Marc is an experienced commercial and chancery practitioner. His broad litigation and advisory work covers most areas of the law normally litigated in the Chancery and Queens Bench Division, including:

- Company law and partnership
- Shareholder disputes
- Corporate and personal insolvency
- Breach of Contract

Furthermore, Marc has developed a practice acting for lenders and in particular short-term bridging lenders and mortgage/civil fraud-related disputes. He has also recently acted for Defendants in a number of complicated 'land banking' claims brought in the Chancery Division by the Financial Services Authority.

International expertise

Marc has been a High Court Examiner for the purpose of litigation in the United States of America and has appeared in the Privy Council on appeal from the New Zealand Court of Appeal. He has also advised in the Isle of Man on a case involving British litigants and Her Majesty's Customs and Excise.
