

Mark Monaghan

General Information

Mark Monaghan joined Clerksroom in 2012, having moved from chambers in South Wales to practise in his native North West. He is based near Lancaster, and his practice takes him nationwide.

Solicitors find Mark to be humorous, approachable, down-to-earth and happy to discuss any matter informally whilst retaining a sharp and focused approach to his advocacy. He transferred to the bar following a commercial management career in the construction industry, the experience of which he brings to bear in his approach, not only to his caseload but also to his own practice.

Having recently moved to the North West, Mark is particularly interested in making new contacts in the region and welcomes any opportunity to discuss ways in which he can help.
